What is a prison? In 1791 Jeremy Bentham designed the Panopticon, a prison in which the inmates were constantly being watched to ensure good behaviour. It was never built. Or was it?

We live in a world of CCTV, governments reading our e-mails, and all buildings from our offices to our schools are built with glass. Do we already live in one giant Panopticon? Is it all right for the government to see everything we do, even if it means it can prevent a crime? And does it mean that, really, we're all living in one big gaol cell?"

Students will work in small groups, so places will be strictly limited and dealt with on a first come, first served basis. Bring a packed lunch and normal writing equipment. Any medical information should accompany the application slip on a separate sheet. The cost is being part-sponsored by the school to reduce the course fee to £24.00 per student for the day.
